Water Famine in the Two Villages

For nearly two weeks the two villages have been without water for domestic purposes. To be exact it has been 12½ days up to the time of going to press. During this time water has been furnished possibly 20 hours, excepting of course the time when the shoe factory pump was in use. How much longer this condition is to continue we cannot definitely say, but believe the end is near.

During this time a huge amount of fault and criticism have been heaped upon the Norway Water Co. That they have been unfortunate in their attempted repairs goes without saying, but they have been working and apparently trying up to the first of this week to mend the broken intake pipe without success, It was then given up and contractor Palmer of Boston called as an expert, who has taken matters in charge and work has ceased waiting the arrival of a sufficiently large steam pump to keep the coffer dam clear of water so a connection can be made and a pipe laid into the lake.

When this is done, and if the pump works, water will be turned on the pipes and the domestic affairs of many a household will go on more smoothly than in the past 12 days.

Last Friday temporary suction was connected with the new gas pump,—the one near the lake,—but the sand had so scored the pump as to make it useless or nearly so. The pump was kept in motion for perhaps 20 hours. Some say it pumped water, others say it didn't. We don't know, but we do know there was no water in the Norway reservoir Sunday at 9 30, a. m.

If another fire occurs it will be handled very similar to the one last Saturday when the chief engineer of the department called into use the shoe factory pump to supply water, and the hand tubs of fifty years ago did good service.

F. H. Cummings near his residence on Main street, has kept a large tank for the use of horses. It has been freely used by all. The water comes from their spring.

Emma J. Smith, Main street, had a silcock put in to supply spring water to the public. These are only a few of the neighborly acts of kindness shown during the water shortage.

The Norway Hand Laundry has had river water piped.

Drinking water is supplied in increased quantities by the Norway Pike Hill Spring Water team. The "Spring in the River," at the head of Main street is liberally patronized.

Water for domestic use is carted through the streets in barrels and tanks.

There are several feet of water in the South Paris reservoir, and in case of fire there it would be used.

Edith Parker starts on a two weeks' vacation from Smiley's next Monday.

Carl Boynton and his mother spent Sunday with Annie Hamlin at Waterford.

Work on the State road has been completed. The road has been graded and surfaced with gravel on Pleasant street from the Norway line past the fair grounds and practically to the main gate of Norway Pine Grove cemetery, a distance of 81 rods. An underdrain of 10-inch tile has also been laid across the cemetery, 262 feet in length, to carry off the water which has before always stood on this flat place in the road in the spring. To do the work 1020 loads of gravel were used. Part of this was taken out of the road in front of W. K. Clifford's on the Hebron road, thus cutting down the knoll somewhat. The rest of it was taken out of a knoll back of J. A. Kenney's house. The total cost of the gravel to the town was nothing. The amount available and expended in the work was $2231.87.

The party made a leisurely trip up Mount Madison and then down the Valley Way to Appalachia and took the noon train for Gorham, returning home on the afternoon train. Though the weather conditions were far from ideal it was on the whole a satisfactory trip and thoroughly enjoyed by them al.

Swasey and Philbrook Speak.

Democratic "Calamity Howlers" Consigned to the Mud of the Marshes and the Republicans Exhorted as the Nation's Life Preservers Perched on High Hills and Mountains.

About 300 citizens, women and children listened to Hon. Warren C. Philbrook, Assistant Attorney General of Maine, and Hon. John P. Swasey, Republican candidate for Congress from the 2d Maine district, at New Hall, South Paris, Monday evening. The Norway Brass Band were in attendance and furnished music during the evening.

In the absence of the chairman of the town committee, Alton C. Wheeler, esq., presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. At the beginning he stated that he should take very little time in doing this as it was not necessary to introduce either one of the speakers to an Oxford county audience.

Mr. Philbrook was the first to speak and started off by saying that though he was not a son of Old Oxford county, he did the next best thing by marrying one of our charming Oxford county girls, "so Oxford county must be a sort of mother-in-law of mine." Mr. Philbrook dwelt a good deal on fundamental principles and general welfare. He said that he believed both parties nominated honest, able, respectable gentlemen and did not believe that it become a speaker to criticise the candidate of another party. The American voter is an American king. The theme of the entire discourse seemed to be—general welfare. He said he was talking particularly to the young men and wished them to consider the different propositions carefully. There are towns and cities where the people want the rum question let alone, they don't want to be governed by another section of the country.

He took up the tariff question and quoted Blaine as saying that tariff was localized selfishness. But he considered this a little harsh but explained that Blaine meant that the South should have a tariff on one class of goods, the North on another and so on. Sectional tariff was another struggle for secession. The Republican party believes that the change of conditions and circumstances makes a change in the tariff necessary.

Looking at his watch he said as his wife wasn't along to tell him when to stop he had a picture of her in it to remind him what she would say if she was here.

He advised the people in a political campaign not to get down in the marsh behind the bushes but get up on the hills and mountains, where they can see the whole country. The wealth of the whole country was then given consideration. The mines would be unworked, the forest unhewn, the prairies unplowed but for the adoption of a policy that had stimulated America. I am not talking politics, I am talking about the general welfare. During the building of all these railroads and the development of all these things the Republican party has been in power. He said there were certain men and a certain party that did not care about the view from the mountain top. What they want is to know how, when and where and for what price they can get rum.

He believed that the rum proposition was settled by the verdict of the people as given by William T. Haines at the Bangor Republican convention.

Following this speech, Mr. Swasey was introduced as our next Congressman and spoke in part as follows:

After thanking the 92 Oxford Bears who made such a brave appearance at Lewiston at the district convention, he stated that if elected and seated he should endeavor to discharge his duty as gently or courageously as he could. Men have said things to me and published things about me that do not make very desirable reading as far as I am concerned.

Regarding the dispatch sent through the Democratic papers of what they said I said, he said he should only say that he didn't say it. He was referring to the Waterville Sentinel, and continued, "The Waterville"—pointing to Mr. Philbrook—"that religious paper down there where you live, the Waterville Sentinel.

"Three under oath say that I didn't make those statements and who the devil can say I did."

Mr. Swasey then went on to explain that he was a laboring man acquainted with all kinds of labor and could sympathize with all who earned their bread by the sweat of their brow.

"We are the party, have always been the party of the laboring man. Name the law or the suggestion of law that has ever been enacted in the interest of the people by the Democratic party."

The tariff question was dealt with at some length. The Democratic party was termed as "calamity howlers" and described as being down behind the bushes in the mud. Swasey said he heard a minister that said he liked consistency tell the following story: An evangelist and singer were holding meetings and one evening the evangelist announced that his subject the next nigh would be "Going to hell," and the singer stated he would sing "I'll meet you there."

The change in circumstances and conditions made a change in the tariff necessary but who should do it? The Republicans who are the friends of protection, or the Democrats who would have only enough tariff to pay the running expenses of the government?

Swasey denied various statements made by McGillicuddy and said some of them were absolutely wrong.

The speechmaking occupied fully two hours. Both speakers were applauded as they arose to speak and cheered to some extent at the conclusion of a funny story or witty remark but otherwise the meeting was one of quietness and peace.

What the Kidneys do.

Their Unceasing Work Keeps Us Strong and Healthy.

All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once every three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many disases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot, dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, dropsy, deposits in the urine, etc. But if you keep the filters right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.

I. N. Snell, living on Cottage St., Norway, Me., says: "Prior to using Doan's Kidney Pills I suffered from kidney trouble for a long time. There was a pain through my back, almost constantly, the secretions were irregular in action and caused me great annoyance. Some few months ago Doan's Kidney Pills were so highly recommended that I went to Stone's drug store and procured a box. Since using them I have been feeling a great deal better than before in over a year. My kidneys show more strength and, are regular in action and secretions give me but little trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Air Castles.

No costly mansion rears its walls
That I may call my own.
For me, no spacious marble halls
From quarries e'er have grown.
No castle, turretted and fair
Is mine wherein to dwell,
But I've a castle in the air
More fair than tongue can tell.

It's mine! Its perfect symmetry
With most painstaking care,—
A work of love and sympathy,—
I've carved from the air,
Adorned with richest tapestries
Woven from golden dreams,
And rose-hued hopes of happiness,
Where love's fulfillment gleams.

No cruel doubt can penetrate
My castle's jasper walls,
For all thought less than roseate
In impotence here falls.
Here all the happy hopes and dreams
The world consigns to doom
In radiant beauty live and beam
As rare exotics bloom.

Then what care I tho' clouds arise,
And tempests rage and pour,
From trouble I avert my eyes
And seek my Castle door.
There, visions all my own await,
Faithful and leal and true.
They draw me thro' the castle gate
And shut the world from view.

Do Not Forget.

'Twas down in the dewy meadow, one sunny summer day,
I espied two lovers strolling with farewell words to say.
A scene beyond description I cannot well compare,
A lad so brave and noble, a lass so sweet and fair.
Goodby, sweetheart, fare you well, 'twill be long ere we meet again."
Together joined their voices and sang this sweet refrain:

Chorus.

Do not forget I love you,
Remember my heart is thine.
Forget not, Love, your promise
That some day you'll be mine.
Do not forget the token
Of love that for you I wear.
Never forget I love you,
Forever,—everywhere.

The western sky turned crimson when the sun set at night;
Yet the lovers tarried so sorry seemed their plight.
Then twilight shadows gathered o'er valley, hill and shore,
The man in the moon came all too soon to brighten the world once more.
He played bopeep behind a cloud that sprinkled the earth with rain.
They said farewell so many times and chanted over again:

THE DREAMER.

The Cake Walk.

Said the Butter to the Sugar: "Will you dance tonight with me
At the Cake-walk to be given in the Yellow Bowl? 'Twill be
The smoothest thing you e'er were in before the evening's end,
And the swellest, for the Eggs and Baking Powder will attend;
Spring Wheat Flour will come also, and Sweet Milk, too, will be there—
She's the cream of all the gath'ring and rich as she is fair—
And both Nutmeg and Vanilla may come as a special favor,
I hope they will, their presence to the whole thing would add flavor.
Tall Granite Spoon will lead us through the dance's mystic maze;
He will take us round and round in a sort of polonaise.
It's sure to be exclusive and a very fine affair,
For the most proper of ingredients will be there;
Yet it's whispered low that later, after the cake-walk turn,
The party all together to the Oven will adjourn
And if that's true I'll wager a dollar to a dime
The whole affair will wind up with a very hot old time."—Good Housekeeping.

Buckskin Sam.

For the last year or two on almost any day could be seen, and can yet as for that matter, at Mechanic Falls, a little old man with several medals pinned to his coat. This man is Buckskin Sam.

Buckskin Sam?

No. Buckskin Sam is not his real name. That is Noble—Samuel Noble—and as to how he came by his popular sobriquet hangs a tale.

In telling a story you might as well begin at the beginning, and a biographical sketch begins with a birth. Buckskin Sam was born June 16, 1838, in Kennebunk, this state, and his early life was spent in several Maine towns. When but a small boy and while his family was living in Somerville, he determined to see a little of the world, so he did up a little bundle of clothing, slyly slipped out of the house, tramped to Thomaston and shipped on the Elizabeth. This vessel was bound for Norfolk, Virginia, and while in that port he had the chance to make a trip through the Great Dismal Swamp region. Returning home, he made a fishing cruise along the coast of Maine.

He then made a voyage to South America. On the arrival of the vessel at Buenos Ayres he left the ship and wandered into the country, finally obtaining employment on a sheep ranch on the Rio Negro river. His work was that of a shepherd, and with two dogs he followed a flock of sheep about the plains adjacent to the river. This plain was infested with wild animals and also wilder men; and on the 16th of June, 1850—his 12th birthday—he was taken prisoner by a tribe of Plute Indians.

He was adopted by this tribe and lived with them six years. It was this tribe which gave him the name of Buckskin Sam. He was clothed in buckskin and that associated with Sam, the only part of Noble's name the chief could remember, and so he became Buckskin Sam and Buckskin Sam he has been to the present time.

He has many interesting stories to tell about life with these Indians in Patagonia.

While out hunting one day he was rescued by a party of soldiers and carried back to Buenos Ayres. From that city he went to sea again. After making several voyages, he turned up in England, and while there enlisted in the 83d regiment of the British army and saw service in the seige of Sebastopol and in India. His regiment, he says, was the first to cross the Isthmus of Suez in a train of cars. He was in India during the Sepoy Rebellion. He was stationed at Cawnpore at the time of the great massacre in 1857, and barely escaped with his life.

Buckskin Sam tells a good many stories about life in India and hunting big game in the jungles.

In was in March, 1864, that he again landed in this country, at New York. The great Civil War was at its height at that time, and at New Haven he enlisted in the 1st Connecticut Cavalry and took part in the closing battles of the war. Gen. Geo. A. Custer was his commanding officer, and he remained with him after the war, acting as a scout on the plains.

On leaving the army he formed a show, something like Buffalo Bill's, which was known as Buckskin Sam and his Indians. After a while Congress passed a law ordering the Indians back to their reservation and the show business was broken up.

After that Buckskin Sam drifted back to Maine and for 16 years was a guide in the Rangeley region. It was up there that the people in this vicinity became acquainted with him. It was while in this employment that he had his star adventure—the killing of five bears in six minutes. It happened in this way:

Buckskin Sam and another man was out hunting up in Oxford county near West mountain. The two men got separated and Sam continued to climb until he got to the top of the mountain, where he sat down. He had been sitting but a moment or two when he heard a noise behind him, and looking around saw five hungry bears within 10 feet of him. Grabbing his heavy 44 Winchester he aimed at the nearest and shot him dead. Another shot killed number two. This last bullet did double duty. After it passed through the body of bear number two, it lodged in the shoulder of bear number three. This caused him to double up with pain and in so doing rolled over the edge of the ledge upon which they were and down a precipice with 100 feet drop. Number four next got a ball through her ribs and she followed number three over the ledge.

With that shot he had exhausted the magazine of his rifle and still had number five on his hands. This bear was inclined to fight at close range. Sam clubbed his rifle and awaiting a favorable opportunity thrust his hunting knife into the bear's neck. The bear at this sought cover behind a rock. This gave Sam time to thrust several shells into his rifle, two of which he used on the bear, the last one causing him to roll over the cliff. Sam was badly scratched in this encounter which lasted altogether about six minutes.

At the opening of the Jamestown Exposition he went south to take charge of the Klondike exhibit, and while there contracted malaria, and it incapacitated him for further guiding at present; so at the close of the exposition he took up his residence in Mechanic Falls. He had his boat sent down from the Rangeley region to float in the more peaceful waters in this vicinity.—[Mechanic Falls Ledger.

V. I. S. Entertainment at Bryant's Pond

The Village Improvemont Society's annual entertainment was Thursday evening, in Dudley's Opera House, under the direction of I. A. Hall of Patterson, N. J., who spared neither time nor expense to make the decorations attractive, the program good and the whole affair most enjoyable. Through his generosity the fire derartment received gifts of fire helmets and bugles, the same going to Deloraine Cole and Archie Felt as representing officially the fire company. Mr. Hall made the presentation speeches in a few well-chosen words, and was given three hearty cheers by the audience. He also presented George Stephens with a gold medal for his numerous brave deeds in rescuing summer boarders from starvation. Mr. Hall urged upon Mr. Stephens the necessity of passing this medal on to his children, which Mr. Stephens promised to do, provided somebody would volunteer to supply the children.

After the talent had got through their part of the entertainment, refreshments and dancing made their appearance, and kept the large assemblage in a merry whirl until a late hour. It is rumored that a large amount of money was raised for the V. I. S.

The program:

Piano solo.....Miss Mauger
Pathetic recitation.....Mr. England
Violin solo.....Mr. Mauger
Vocal solos.....Miss Peck
Classic duo and fire drill!.....
..... Messrs. Critchlow and England
Presentation of lemons.....Mr. Mauger

Not Washburn-Crosby.

Makers of Gold Medal Flour Not Concerned in Minneapolis Receivership.

It should be understood that the Washburn-Crosby Co., makers of Gold Medal Flour, are in no way concerned with the recent Minneapolis flouring mill receivership. The slight similarity in names has led to some confusion.

One need have no fear that the Gold Medal housewives, whose pictures have adorned the magazines and newspapers, will cease to appear. We shall see them the same as ever. And the Washburn-Crosby Co. continue to be the largest milling concern in the world.

Therefore, while the receivership in question is most unfortunate, it does not by any means concern all Minneapolis flour mills. The Washburn-Crosby Co., makers of the widely-advertised Gold Medal Flour, shipped 8,000 cars last year more than their nearest competitor. And they are flourishing still.

The Tug Nezinscot.

D. Crommett Clark writes from Portsmouth in a private letter:—

They have a tug named Nezinscot in the United States navy. She is kept on duty at the Portsmouth navy yard. She was built while John D. Long was secretary of the navy and he had her named for the pretty little river that tumbles down hill through his native town of Buckfield.

Along the banks of that river they call it the Ne zin-scot, with the accent on the zin. The Portsmouth people had no instruction in pronunciation but they could read the name and when the tug was sent here they made a pronunciation of their own and called her the Nez-in-scot, with the accent on the nez. I suppose the vessel will be called the Nez-in-scot as long as she stays in this vicinity, for I am not going to undertake the job of correcting everybody whom I meet with that pronunciation on his lips.

But it sounds queer to me who went to school in the Buckfield village brick schoolhouse and who has caught yellow perch and chubs and "punkinseed" fish in the Ne-zin-scot river, which flows back of the schoolhouse and is bridged three times in the village.

The purple-marked green caterpillar "Heterocampa guttivitta" appears to be doing considerable damage in your county. It covers irregularly and by spots a patch of territory stretching from Claremont on the Connecticut river in a northeasterly direction across New Hampshire to the Maine line in the Ossipee valley and from that point in the same general direction to the river Androscoggin at Canton and vicinity.

Query—Did the outbreak begin in New Hampshire, and did the prevailing west-southwest winds distribute them?

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

WHEREAS our Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to again visit our Grange and remove from our midst our beloved sister, Mrs. Nellie N. Inman, be it

RESOLVED, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who "doeth all things well," we sincerely mourn for and cherish the memory of the sister who has been taken from us, and can but realize that she has passed that dark portal through which we all must go ere we enter "that paradise not made with hands eternal in the heavens."

RESOLVED, That while we deeply sympathize with those who were bound to our departed sister by the nearest and dearest ties, we share with them the hope of a reunion in the better world where there are no partings, and where pain and sorrow are no more.

RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased sister as a token of our love and respect; a copy sent to the Norway ADVERTISER for publication and one inscribed on the records of our Grange, also that our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days.

Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, and Marching through Georgia went with a swing. The singers were no longer the gray haired veterans who came on the grounds that morning, but boys again. Just the same brave invincible boys that served their country so well during a most righteous war.

Interesting remarks were made by Comrades O. A. Maxim, Captain Bucknam, J. A. Noyes and Mr. Hutchins. Rev. Mr. Barton and Mrs. Putnam also favored us.

It was an ideal day, a beautiful place and the decoration of flags appealed to all the patriotism within us.

She was there, Old Glory,
No tyrant dealt scars,
No stain on her crimson,
No blot on her stars,
She's the Flag of our Union forever.

A vote was taken to adjourn till June 17, '09. Closed by singing America. Benediction by Rev. Mr. Barton.

Field Day.

The morning of Aug. 15 dawned with all the splendor of a beautiful day. By special invitation Crooked River Grange and Otisfield Grange had been invited to spend Field Day at the farm home of George H. Cummings and wife, both being worthy members of Crooked River Grange, and in obedience to an impulse that arises from rural life, as patrons and friends, and neighbors we met on the broad acres of the brother's beautiful farm, dedicated to the purpose of agriculture and stock raising.

Pregnant with pleasant memories to us of like occasions, environed by the profusion of nature's wealth we met to mingle together in friendship that makes all the world akin to friendship. Brother and Sister Cummings, assisted by their son Frank and his wife, did all they could to make everybody feel that they were welcome, yes, thrice welcome.

About nine o'clock the people began to arrive by single teams and two and four horse loads, until three or four hundred people made the grounds resound with merry laughter and hearty cheer which is charactistic of the members of the order.

When the dinner hour came everybody seated themselves in groups under the spreading branches of the huge maples that surround this ideal home.

After dinner a short program was presented by Worthy Master Shedd of Crooked River Grange. Music by choir; reading, Rebecca Shedd; song, Bro. A. W. Weston, encore; reading, June Jillson; song, Norman and Lelia Mills; reading Ethel Jillson.

The master then called to the front the host of the day, who gave a pleasant talk in a few well chosen words and then introduced W. K. Hamlin of Bear Mountain Grange and the proprietor of the noted Waterford creamery, who addressed the audience in his usual quiet manner. Music by choir.

Daniel H. Caswell of Austin, Texas, the manufacturer of cotton seed meal, gave a sketch of his life as a Maine boy and his present Texas home. Music by choir. Remarks for the good of the order by the masters of Otisfield Grange and of Frederic Robie Grange, Leslie McIntire, Granville Fernard of Bear Mt. Grange, N. C. Pinkham and C. F. Brett, Crooked River Grange. A vote of thanks was extended Brother and Sister Cummings and family for their kindness.

Two games of base ball was enjoyed by the crowd. In the forenoon the single men played against the married men, in the afternoon the best game of the season was played by the Bolster's Mills nine and the Wildmeres. Score, 2 to 1. This closed a day long to be remembered by all present.

Base Ball.

Norway 6, West Paris 3.

A good crowd was at the fair grounds, Saturday, to witness the ball game and although it was not as interesting as Thursday's game there was not a great deal of fault to find.

Norway got a two run lead in the first inning on two hits and two bases on balls, slow fielding was responsible for one of the hits. West Paris scored its run on Lowell's error and two hits in the fourth innings and with good base running they would have scored twice at this time. Two hits and costly errors by N. Rowe and Ridlon gave Norway three runs and the game in the fifth inning. In the sixth each team scored one run.

A base on balls, a put out at first and Harrison's error did the trick for West Paris, while Norway got the only earned run of the game on Lowell's single and Price's double. The last run of the game came to West Paris in the seventh on Emery's hit, Ridlon's sacrifice and a wild pitch.

Hebron 9, West Minot 4.

Hebron easily defeated West Minot on the West Minot grounds 9 to 4. Pike sprained his ankle badly in the first of the 6th inning, but pluckily pitched and batted throughout the game, making his second two base hit after the injury.

The umpiring was very poor. West Minot was roasted by their own umpire on balls and strikes, and Young was given his base on balls the first time the ball was thrown when he came to bat in the 8th inning. However both teams were too friendly and good natured to let any decisions cause any trouble or hard feeling, so all went merrily on.

WEST BETHEL.

A Most Delightful Outing.

One of the most pleasant outings in the history of our vacation was spent at the Ordway camp on Caribou mountain, where the following young people spent the night of August 15th:—F. L. Ordway and wife, M. O'Reilly and wife, Clara Corey, Charles and Frank Laird of Portland, George E. McCarron, Zenas Merrill, Dexter Mills and son, Francis, and Hon. Alfred Peaslee of Anywhere and Caribou but he has not been there yet.

This camp is a model place for an outing and is 14x20 feet in size, will accommodate 15 or 20 persons, a few steps from a beautiful spring.

The host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Ordway, well known for their hospitality, gave us a grand reception. We had baked beans in the grand old-fashioned way, best of milk and butter, mountain cranberries, blueberries, green corn, Astrachan apples, lamb chops and fried veal steak for breakfast, with toasted bread and new potatoes baked in the ashes with nice tea.

This camp is about a five minutes' walk from the tip-top of Mt. Caribou, the view from which both morning and evening is superb. It is 3300 feet high and Presidential Range, the Androscoggin river on either side and Portland may be seen from the top in a clear day.

One erroneous idea about this camp to be made public, Mr. Ordway wishes through your columns to correct to the effect that this was a "free for all camp," whereas it is no such thing. Anyone occupying or trespassing around same without authority or invitation from Mr. Ordway will be expected to give an account of themselves upon complaint, and it is free only to those who helped to build it on application to mine host.

Base Ball.

Mechanic Falls and Norway play a Remarkable Game. Score, 0 all, 12 innings.

At the fair grounds, Thursday afternoon, a small crowd saw 12 innings of swell base ball, neither side being able to get a man across the pan.

It was truly a pitchers' battle; Leith had it on Adams in the matter of strike outs, and Adams had the better of Leith on bases on balls.

Only once for each team did a man get as far as third base. It was a remarkably clean fielded game, Mechanic Falls going the game without a misplay and Norway making two, a fumbled ball by Libby and a wild throw to first by Leith. Manager Leith is giving the base ball public some good sport, and every one who enjoys the game should see the remaining games as the season is drawing to a close.

Saturday's Big Fire.

Two Houses, Stable and Storehouse burned. Others Saved by Excellent Work of Firemen. $12,000 Loss With $8,000 Insurance.

Men, women and children were roused to activity at about ten minutes before twelve Saturday, by the sound of the fire alarm. The fire was at the storehouse of H. F. & E. E. Andrews' at the rear of their sale stable, corner of Main and Marston streets. A large crowd quickly gathered and with the wind blowing from the northwest it was apparent that the Andrews' house and probably others near by must go, so work was at once begun of clearing the house of furniture and other belongings.

The fire department was on the scene promptly and soon had a good stream at work. Four horses, one or two carriages and some harnesses in the stable were removed. A quantity of new harnesses and several tons of hay went up in the flames. About two-thirds of the household goods were taken from the house, the first and second floors being practically cleared. Nothing was removed from the attic or storeroom.

The next house owned and occupied on the first floor by G. F. Stone, photographer, soon caught. The second floor was occupied by Mrs. Cora Russell. A part of the crowd turned their attention to this house and the most of the furniture was taken out.

About this time it looked as though the house of J. T. Rowe was destined for the ash heap and his household goods and those of Lester Ashton, who occupies the upstairs rent, were removed across the street, but the good work of the firemen won the day and this house escaped almost without injury from the flames, with the exception of the scorching of a portion of it nearest the heat. The helpers, however, who were removing the furniture thinking that the house would certainly go broke some glass, marred the woodwork to a considerable extent, and demolished the banisters.

Very little was removed from the store of L. I. Gilbert as it was seen how the firemen were handling the flames, but a careful watch was kept in case the position became absolutely dangerous. The goods of Scott Merrill in the rent upstairs were about all removed and taken across the street to a place of safety.

The school house at one time caught fire, but water was put on in time to put it out and no damage to speak of was done.

The fire had not been burning long before the home of Lee M. Smith on Marston street, just back of the storehouse, was in eminent danger. The fire burned into a wood pile in the yard and reached the ell of the house and it was with considerable difficulty that it was extinguished. In the meantime the furniture had been removed.

The house of Arthur Hebbard, just above the Andrews' house escaped with a few panes of glass cracked.

George W. Locke's house just across the street from Mr. Rowe's caught several times but was extinguished by the hosemen and nearby spectators.

Spontaneous combustion in the wool in the Andrews brothers storehouse is the cause of the fire. E. E. Andrews was in the storehouse not more than twenty minutes before the fire was discovered and everything was all right. Fortunately they had not had but a small quantity of their wool delivered and had only about 4,000 pounds on hand.

The estimated total loss on the Andrews property is about $10,000 with an insurance of about $7,000. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Andrews were at home. Mr. Andrews' mother and sister, Mrs. A. F. and Nellie Andrews, who live with them were at Old Orchard.

The firm of H. F. & E. E. Andrews is wellknown throughout the county and state as large dealers in horses and wool.

The business began about 35 years ago by their father, Albert F. Andrews, and has been conducted by his sons, for the past 15 years. The house and stable on this same site was burned in the big fire of 1894. Mr. Andrews will build a barn this fall but it is doubtful if he builds a house before next season. They will live at the Mark Pride rent over the post office for a month.

A part of Mr. Stone's family were visiting at Millettville at the time but came into town at once on learning of the fire. His loss is $2,000 with an insurance of $1,000. Mrs. Russell who lived upstairs had no insurance on her furniture. Mr. Stone had recently painted his house and made other repairs.

During the fire men, women and children ministered to the hungry workmen and did noble work furnishing them with water, coffee, cake and crackers. Horne's cafe sent down a generous supply of sandwiches and coffee, and neighbors along the street furnished a bountiful lot. The fire being so near dinner time and few if any having eaten, these things were doubly appreciated.

After the worst was over a dreary, confused spectacle presented itself. Furniture strewn for a long distance along the street, blackened, weary men gathered here and there, and others busy carrying back their belongings that had been removed from the houses that did not burn.

The last of the chimneys that had remained standing during the fire fell with a crash a little after three o'clock. A portion of the Andrews and Stone house walls was saved but not enough of them to be of any good.

No serious accidents occurred. "Ikey" Lowell got a "whelt" from falling debris and two or three others got struck in the eye by burning cinders.

Much credit is due the fire department for their excellent work and the work of Hose Co. No. 3 who coupled on to the hydrant on corner of Main and Paris streets and kept the fire from the Rowe house and Gilbert's store, saving those buildings.

The Paris fire department responded promptly to the call for aid and came with their hand tub and stayed with them doing fine work.

The Lewiston fire department was telephoned for but had to unload a car before they could load their steamer. By the time this was done the fire was under control and they were telegraphed not to come.

The water pressure was obtained principally from shoe shop pump helped by the pipes being full from the reservoir but the pressure from the latter was low as the pump had been started only the night before, having been shut down nearly a week, and there was not a large amount of water from that source.

Susie Jones of Boston, who is at the Thomas farm this season, has spent several days with Mrs. Frank Hurd.

Maud Anderson takes Blanche Adams' place in the jobbing department at the shoe shop during Miss Adams' sickness

This woman says that after months of suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made her as well as ever.

Maude E. Forgie, of Leesburg, Va., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I want other suffering women to know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For months I suffered from feminine ills so that I thought I could not live. I wrote you, and after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and using the treatment you prescribed I felt like a new woman. I am now strong, and well as ever; and thank you for the good you have done me."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Told but Not by Eye Witness.

This is the way a Boston paper got the news from our Saturday fire. We are truly thankful it was not as bad as this but it was plenty bad enough as told in another column. The big head says:—"Norway Flame Swept, Bucket Brigade Fought $75,000 Blaze in Maine Village."

It then goes on to say:—"Fanned by a strong wind an insignificant blaze which started in the big storehouses of H. E. & E. E. Andrews threatened this village with destruction today and entailed a loss of between $65,000 and $75,000.

The village has been without water supply since Sunday owing to the breaking of a pipe.

Bucket brigades carrying water from wells were unable to hold the flames in check.

Help was summoned as soon as the serious nature of the fire became apparent. Auburn sent one hose wagon and Lewiston a steamer and hose wagon.

The village presents a scene of desolation tonight. Fear of a repetition of the terrible fire of 1894 when three-quarters of the village was wiped out, caused a big guard of watchmen to be immediately sworn in.

Telephone wires are down and electric service cut off.

Company D of the National Guard State Militia, stationed here, are in readiness to be called into action at once should the fire break out afresh.

From the big Andrews storehouses, covering an acre, the fire spread to the handsome residence of the Andrews brothers. The building, a modern three-story double house burned like tinder.

A bucket brigade quickly formed, in command of Chief Hathaway, extended nearly a quarter of a mile to Tannery brook. In the meantime the flames spread to the big stables and the residence of G. F. Stone. The residence of G. F. Rowe and the provision store of L. I. Gilbert were scorched.

Big Codfish and Whale.

A deep sea fishing party from Oxford, Cornish and Norway went out to Half-Way Rock off Portland harbor last Saturday. No better day could be had, wind was strong northwest and no one was sick, that is not sick enough to amount to anything.

There were 45 in the party including C. H. Leighton of Cornish, C. F. Starbird of Oxford, the writer and Geo. I. Cummings of Norway. Many fish were taken. A cod that weighed 48 pounds was hauled in by Wright Summers of South Framingham. This fish was afterwards caught by Leander Wardwell and presented to Oxford Spring House as a souvenir of the trip. Prizes were awarded as follows:

Wright Summers, South Framingham, Mass., 48 pound cod, $3.50.

Henry J. Hammett, Portland, 12½ pound cod, $2.50.

Ralph Edwards, Oxford. 6½ pound cod, $1.50.

S. Major Hammett, Portland, 5 pound one, $1.00.

Frank Lovering of Oxford, not in pool, caught a cod weighing 7½ pounds.

A whale of big size was seen several times during the day playing on the surface of the water perhaps a half mile distant.

This is the "mid-summer bargain sale season."

Harry A. Packard has returned to Boston to resume work on the Boston Sunday Post, not the Globe as stated in last week's ADVERTISER.

"The country is suffering from the effects of too much law and too little enforcement," says the New York World. "Some day a real reformer will rise up to advocate the repeal of 50 per cent. of the existing statutes and the enforcement of all the rest. His reform will amount to something."

Fish Propagation.

Until they began to investigate for themselves some of the people really believed that they were getting the worst of it in regard to the inland fisheries and game. Investigation showed them, however, that they were not paying a cent for the protection of big game and that all the money which the Legislature appropriates for the fish and game department goes to the fish hatcheries and feeding stations. The game warden service is paid for out of the license fees received by the State from those who come to the State to hunt big game. Not a dollar of the State appropriation goes for the big game side of the fish and game department.

Every pond that is stocked with game fish means not only good fishing for those who live near at hand but the coming of fishermen and summer boarders who will bring money to residents of nearby communities. A well-stocked pond is now recognized throughout the State as an asset of no small proportions and the State will do more instead of less along these lines in the future.

Fish propagation has been going on in Maine for nearly 40 years and the State today owns and operates nine fish hatcheries in eight counties. They represent a valuation of $75,000 and their joint product of fish, if sold in the market, would yield $30,000 annually. But put into the lakes and ponds of Maine the annual return is far greater. It is hard to place a reliable estimate on what these fish are really worth to the State but those who have canvassed the situation thoroughly say that $100,000 is none too large.—[Kennebec Journal.

Three Tons of Moths Caught in One Night.

The Saxon authorities have discovered what would seem to be an excellent way to put an end to the caterpillar plague, which is having such disastrous effect on the local forests. They have discovered a method to catch the brown moths that lay the eggs from which the caterpillars come in enormous quantities.

They make use of what they call the electric light trap. This consists of two large powerful reflectors placed over a deep receptacle, and powerful exhaust fans. The whole has been erected on top of the municipal electric plant at Zittau, Germany. At night two great streams of light are thrown from the reflectors on the wooded mountains, half a mile distant. The results have been astonishing.

The moths, drawn by the brilliancy, come fluttering in thousands along the broad rays of light. When they get to a certain distance from the reflectors the reflector's fans take up their work and with powerful currents of air swirl them down into the receptacle.

On the first night no less than three tons of moths were caught. The forests central Europe have from time to time been ravaged by raids of moths from Russia, whose larvae denude the trees of their foliage. The splendid pines of the Lausitz mountains are this year threatened with destruction.

"What Can a Boy Do, Anyhow?"

By the proper use of a tack, a boy can make his pa talk in four different languages and swear in an unknown tongue.

By dropping a little ammonia on her back, he can make the family cat drill a hole through the wood-shed.

By attaching a tin-can to the tail of the laziest pug on earth, he can make him beat a greyhound for speed.

By free and disengenuous talk to his sister's best fellow, he can make that sister cherish pessimistic feeling toward the entire universe.

He can even make his parents thank God every day that he was not twins.

In short, I wish to ask our respected citizens what under heaven is there a boy can't do.

This year a monument to the dead and living members of the "Old Fighting Fifth," was dedicated at their annual reunion at the building of the Fifth Maine Regimental Association on Peaks Island. Mrs. Nelle Phipps, daughter of Gen. C. S. Edwards of Bethel, the old colonel of the regiment, told the association that her father had in his possession many of the records of the regiment at his death and his children desired to present these to the association. A brother of hers, A. M. Edwards of Boston, also presented some records belonging to Capt. Sanborn.

Those who attended the 1-10-29th Maine Regimental reunion, Thursday, from this section were Isaac P. Davis, Mechanic Falls; W. W. Dennen, East Poland; C. Johnston, Bridgton; George H. Knight, East Otisfield; Henry C. Pratt, James S. Wilber, Dixfield; George K. Ripley, South Paris; William C. Rowe, Brownfield; Col. W. W. Whitmarsh, Norway.

Clever Way of Doing Things.

A few grains of rice in a salt shaker will prevent the salt from caking and cause it to sprinkle out freely.

Try using rather soapy water in making starch; it will be found glossier and the iron will not adhere to the fabric.

To clean cane chairs wash with hot water until they are well soaked, and use soap if necessary. Dry them in the sun and the seats will become as tight as when new.

It is worth much to know that linseed oil rubbed over the kitchen range will prevent the blacking from burning off. Go over the surface with a little oil each morning.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Wider Roads or No Autos.

Autos ought not to pass over our roads unless the towns make them wider Most of our roads are so narrow that two teams have all they can do to pass in some places. Ed. Grant's Airship.

Veracious Tale of Sky Hunting of Big Game.

The following tale is contributed by Eddie Grant from his lair in the Kennebago Lake district dated October 21, 1915, and is advance matter and worthy of his imaginative brain.

"This morning about dawn I was awakened from sleep by an awful noise in the heavens right over Boil mountain 'nd lookin' out of my camp window I beheld a critter a floatin' over th' mountain a' flappin' uv his wings like thet eagle thet cum 'nd bit a piece uv th' risin' when I was just a 'propagatin' uv it with phosphate; 'nd next I heard a voice comin' from th' ethereal blue, as the poets say, "Hello, Bill, where in thunderation are we at?"

"A man swung hisself into a contraption like a trapeze performer and down came a sailin' this writ on a piece of paper with a heading readin', "AERIAL HUNTING CLUB, FISHING, AVIATING. We are lost in the air and can't find on the maps the trail to Grant's or Billy Soule's Camps. Can you tell us which sky route to take? Please answer at once by megaphone. Don't call central. Shout up."

"Finished readin' 'nd then appeared three more figgers out of the balloon 'nd threw out a couple of dunnage bags thet fell in th' pond; flew rite down out of the sky 'nd lit at my feet before I had time to say my prayers."

"One handed me his card, another sed 'This ain't Eddie Grant is it? 'Nd 'nother fired a dingus into the air and immejiately out uv th' airship they told me it wus, cum a woman."

"I think she hed on one of these pop'lar sheet gowns fur she floated right handsomely down frum heaven like a circus girl 'nd almost lit on my neck.

"How dye do, Eddie," she sed, "'nd how's your dirigibles? Do you use double or quad cylinders, 'nd how's smugglin' diamonds through here? Found eny big bucks, or moose with aerolite in 'em? Say, Eddie, do you know you're a peach 'mongst us skyscrapers? Heard my grand dad mention you, you know.

"Got any gas? What propellor do you favor? I guess I'll go in and have an ether sandwich if you have 'em ready.

"Harry Pierce had just come in from Spencer 'nd he was a fannin' me when I woke up surrounded with these goggled balloonatics.

"Outside I saw the airship a tuggin' et the rope, the anchor fastened to one of my favorite camps.

"Bimeby a fellow came out to where I sat dazed like 'nd sed:

"'Ed. Grant, come with me up where you belong.' Et that he tuk hold uv me gallusses 'nd loosenin 'a guy rope tucked a clutch under my chin 'nd up we sailed, leavin' Harry Pierce a standin' below like a speck on Boil mountain.

"Leggo, mister, I cried haf way up, 'nd stop your kidnappin'. Is there a reason?

"But he only grinned 'nd up we sored. 'How's the game laws, Eddie? Can they pinch a fellow for hookin' a moose with our drag anchor? And can they charge us a license for sky hunting?'

"I was sittin' fore I knew it in es fine a sky-camp, es they called it, es you'd wish to see.

"'Les take a run over to Harry Pierce's,' he says, 'nd pulled a line. 'P'raps Harry knows.'

"But Harry's down stairs, sez I, rekollectin' seein' him down below.

"'He was,' he says, 'but he's on his way now hum in our auxiliary 'nd sure's you're born we lit in Harry's front yard 'nd Harry was there to meet us.'

"Harry was all at sea bout the law 'nd after an 'ether skyrocket,' es my friend called it. Harry 'nd I was switched back to Beaver Ponds, seein' more game huddled in the woods than I ever recollekted. They seemed to be frozen stiff, 'nd the deer stood, flag up, a' peeking aloft at us.

"Bears were up trees, partridges seemed to be tame and flew around us perchin' on the basket rim, a few eagles were sittin' on the motor, 'nd down below we could see a big moose chasin' us along, while a chattering chorus of crows made music.

"As we got near Beaver Ponds the skyscraper guide motioned to the man at the helm 'nd they let drop a lot of things; the motor whizzed 'nd up came a moose, a deer and a bear danglin' from big hooks. I recognized the moose as my pet I'd fed for years, and the bear was an old friend of mine I'd used in advertisin'. I protested, but they only laughed and sed that I was old-fashioned and that of I didn't mind they'd drop me off home for they were anxious to get back to Chicago next morning.

"As they fastened a parishoot around my neck one of them sed, 'much obliged Eddie,' and I fell into my own front door yard right side up. Ain't it awful, Harry?"—[Maine Woods.

TO RHEUMATISM SUFFERERS.

Scientific Treatment That Costs Nothing Unless It Cures.

Neuralgic Anodyne's remarkable cures of rheumatism has probably caused more favorable talk and comment than any other rheumatism cure ever put on the market, as it seems unfailing in curing this dread disease.

It is much more successful than ordinary rheumatism remedies, due to its action being entirely different. It is taken in small doses internally, reaching the nerve centers and driving the Uric Acid from the blood. At the same time, it is rubbed on the affected parts, and thus its curative power goes through the pores of the skin to the aching tissues and throbbing nerves, giving quick relief and cure.

So reliable is the Anodyne in curing rheumatism, neuralgia and all aches and pains that it is sold under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if not satisfactory.

A large-sized bottle costs 25c; nothing if it does not cure. It is made by The Twitchell-Champlin Co., Portland, Me.

We also wish to express especial thanks for the beautiful floral tributes from the Masonic and Knights of Pythias Lodges, relatives and friends.

MRS. ELLA A. BURNHAM,
MRS. WILL G. PALMER.

Lewis H. Burnham.

Lewis H. Burnham, a prominent citizen and business man of Albany, died Thursday, August 13th, at the age of 59 years. Mr. Burnham was the son of Moses and Almira (Goodwin) Burnham and was born in Hollis in 1849, where he lived until 1889 when he moved to Albany.

His education was received in the Hollis public schools and at Limington Academy. At Hollis Mr. Burnham was engaged in brick manufacturing, farming and real estate, and at Albany he has been engaged in the manufacture of long and short lumber.

Mr. Burnham represented the towns of Hollis and Buxton in state legislature in 1888-89. He was a member of the Masons, Knights of Pythias, Patrons of Husbandry and Good Templars. Politically he has a been life long Republican.

March 30, 1873, Mr. Burnham married Ella A. Bradbury, who survives him. They had one daughter who married Willard G. Palmer and resides in Albany.

Mr. Burnham has one brother, E. T. Burnham, who resides on the old homestead but at the present time is engaged in the lumber business, also one sister, Mrs. A. C. Locke, who resides in Hollis.

The funeral was held from the Methodist church at Hollis, Rev. William Cotton officiating.

Mr. Burnham's health began to fail about two years ago. Upon examination by his family physician it was found he was suffering from a slight enlargment of the heart. Later valvular troubles developed which resulted in his death.

Mr. Burnham has been one of the leading manufacturers in this section of Oxford county, and has been very successful in his business affairs. He was, to quote what a man who has had much dealing with him said, "upright and square as a brick" in all business transactions, and his advice was always respected.

About the time it was supposed the Oxford Central railroad was an assured thing he bought a lot on Orchard street, Norway, and intended to build him a residence, for with the railroad facilities he could easily have lived there and conducted his well established business at Lynchville. He was one of the directors of the Norway National Bank at the time of his death.

Mr. Burnham was a pleasant man to meet, looked on the bright side, and was socially the life of any gathering where he chanced to be.
